THE STORY

> Distance does not disappear; it changes rhythm. Fear loses time, two tired hearts find the same pulse, and the space between them begins to dance. Closeness rarely arrives by erasing the gap; it grows as two people learn to move within it. What would happen if you stopped guarding the distance and let it dance?

LYRICS

The Distance Learned to Dance

VERSE 1

You met me at the edge of dawn
Where every step felt way too long
I kept my guard in a paper ring
You said, "Just move, let the floor do its thing"
The room went soft, then it turned to gold
Your name on my tongue felt brave and cold
I watched the fear start losing time
Like a tide that forgot its line

PRE-CHORUS

Hold on
We're almost there
Hands up
Forget the stair
Take my pulse
Take my pace
If I fall
Meet me in space

CHORUS

The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
We came alive in one hard glance
The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
Pull me close, don't let it pass
The distance learned to dance

VERSE 2

Now every mile is a bright-blue spark
Every old regret cuts less in the dark
I wore your laughter like a key
And it opened the locked-up part of me
We were all nerves, then we were air
Two tired hearts with nowhere to care
Then that slow ache got a pulse and spin
And I swear the whole world leaned us in

Hold on
We're almost there
Hands up
Forget the stair
Take my pulse
Take my pace
If I fall
Meet me in space

CHORUS

The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
We came alive in one hard glance
The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
Pull me close, don't let it pass
The distance learned to dance

BRIDGE / BREAKDOWN

In the hush before the light
I heard your voice cut through the night
Not a promise, not a prayer
Just your hand saying, "Come here"

FINAL CHORUS

The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
We came alive in one hard glance
The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
The distance learned to dance
Pull me close, don't let it pass
The distance learned to dance (dance)
