THE STORY

> Some children seem to drift away while standing right beside us, slipping into a world where sound, light and silence are felt differently. People call her distant, lost, somewhere else. But she was never missing — only out of sight, learning to breathe in rooms without light, a small flame still burning beneath every name she was given. What if the girl everyone called absent was simply listening to a quieter, deeper world?

Little Girl, Breathe Endlessly

COLD OPEN

Little girl…
Where did you go?
I still see your shadow
where the old light falls.

VERSE 1

Little girl walking through a silver rain,
Counting broken stars against the windowpane.
She carried whole summers in the sleeves she wore,
And believed every silence was an open door.
Then the years came quietly, taking their place,
Leaving little winters underneath her face.
But somewhere below every name she outgrew,
A small light kept breathing—
Waiting to break through.

PRE-CHORUS

Every lost year left a trace,
Every goodbye kept her shape.
Every shadow,
every flame,
still remembers her name.

CHORUS

Round and round,
let the old world spin.
There is still a room
where she has always been.
Close your eyes,
let the darkness move.
Little girl,
the light still remembers you.
Round and round,
past the lives we know,
past every place
we were afraid to go.
Different years,
same heartbeat underneath.
Little girl…
Breathe endlessly.

VERSE 2

Little girl sleeping underneath the sound,
Like a hidden moon that never touched the ground.
All the old ghosts dissolve into the blue,
All the doors once closed begin to open through.
She was never missing,
only out of sight,
Learning how to breathe
in rooms without the light.
And when the bass moves low,
when the whole room slows,
There she is again—
in the place nobody knows.

PRE-CHORUS

Every scar became a line,
Every shadow learned to shine.
Still a voice,
still a flame,
still alive
inside her name.

CHORUS

Round and round,
let the old world spin.
There is still a room
where she has always been.
Close your eyes,
let the darkness move.
Little girl,
the light still remembers you.
Round and round,
past the lives we know,
past every place
we were afraid to go.
Different years,
same heartbeat underneath.
Little girl…
Breathe endlessly.

BREAKDOWN

Little girl…
Where did you hide?
Behind the years.
Behind the noise.
Behind the names
they gave your voice.
Still there.
Still warm.
Still waiting behind the dawn.

BUILD

Still there…
Still there…
Still there…
Breathe…
Breathe…
Breathe…

FALSE DROP

You were never—gone.

FINAL RELEASE

Round and round,
let the whole night spin.
Let every colour find its way back in.
Open your eyes,
let the lost light move.
Little girl,
the world still remembers you.
Round and round,
now the old stars glow.
Not where we were,
but in what we still know.
Different years,
same heartbeat underneath.
Little girl…
Breathe…
breathe…
breathe endlessly.

FINAL DROP

Still there.
Still light.
Little girl.
Still alive.
Alive…
alive…
alive…
Breathe…
Endlessly…

OUTRO

Little girl…
I know where you go.
You go where forgotten light—learns to glow.
Breathe endlessly.
