THE STORY

> A more rebellious alternate take, bringing a rougher crossover character into the record without losing the club pulse. Some mornings test every last nerve — the taxi, the coffee, the stranger who does not say excuse me. Gratitude is not always serene; sometimes it starts as a deep breath and a sarcastic smile that slowly turns real. What could change if you turned just one bad moment around today?

Turn the Attitude Into Gratitude (Retro Rock Crossover Mix)

INTRO

Oh, fuck.
Not again.

VERSE 1

Seven-fifteen, mascara in a taxi
Coffee in my hand, don't fucking ask me
Somebody bumps me, doesn't say excuse me
Baby, it's too early – don't confuse me
Red light, late train, somebody's staring
Boss keeps calling like I should be caring
One deep breath, I change my latitude
Turn the attitude into gratitude

PRE-CHORUS

Smile for the morning
Smile for the view
Smile like the universe
Didn't just fuck with you
Okay...
I'm grateful.
So grateful.
Look at me.

CHORUS

Turn the attitude into gratitude
Fix your face, baby, change the mood
Life gets messy, coffee gets cold
But I'm still hot, so I've been told
Turn the attitude into gratitude
Nobody gives a fuck, you prostitute
Put your lipstick on, fix your crown
If the day wants war —
I'M GOING DOWNTOWN.

DROP

Attitude.
Gratitude.
Atti-atti-attitude.
Grati-grati-gratitude.

VERSE 2

Nine-oh-five and I'm already done
Meeting at ten – pretending it's fun
"Could you be nicer?"
Honey, I could.
But would I mean it?
No.
Didn't think I would.
Elevator mirror, checking my face
One little smile and I'm back in my place
Maybe life's good...
Maybe I'm rude...
Either way, baby–

BUILD

Turn...
the attitude...
into...
GRATITUDE.

DROP

Nobody gives a fuck–
you prostitute.
Attitude.
Gratitude.
Coffee.
Lipstick.
Fuck it.

OUTRO

Anyway...
Have a beautiful day, babe.
I won't.
